

WE ALL DESIRE SIGNIFICANCE – TO LEAD HAPPY AND FULFILLED LIVES SURROUNDED BY FAMILY AND FRIENDS. FOR MANY OF US, THERE IS A COMPELLING NEED TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE – TO LEAVE A LASTING IMPACT ON THE PEOPLE MOST DEAR TO US AND THE WORLD IN WHICH WE LIVE. The search for significance and desire to plan for the future leads many to ponder their legacy. What kind of legacy will you leave? A bequest is perhaps the easiest and most tangible way to have a lasting impact on the people and organizations that mean the most to you. A bequest may also be an effective way to make a gift to charity and lessen the burden of taxes on your family and estate.

An Easy Gift to Make

A charitable bequest is a bequest written in a will or trust that directs a gift to be made to a qualified exempt charity - such as your church or the Foundation - when you pass away. One benefit of a charitable bequest is that it can help you save estate taxes by providing your estate with a charitable deduction for the value of the gift. With careful planning, your family can also avoid paying income taxes on the assets they receive from your estate. Better yet, a charitable bequest gifted to your church or the Foundation enables you to support the work of building God's Kingdom long after you are gone.

What Legacy

will you leave?

A Bequest to Further Good Work

Nancy and Dave McCallum were involved with their church for many years. They tithed and gave special gifts, but wanted to do more. The McCallums learned that they could make a charitable bequest. Their attorney revised each of their wills to include a provision gifting a percentage of their estate to their church. The McCallums liked the fact that the bequest was easy to do, they could continue to use their assets during their lives, and their estate would be permitted a charitable deduction upon their deaths. Best of all, the bequest would help achieve their goals by furthering their church's mission far into the future.

What Legacy will you Leave?

A bequest is one of the easiest gifts to make. With the help of an advisor, you can include language in your will or trust specifying a gift to be made to family, friends, your church, or the Foundation as part of your estate plan.

A bequest may be made in several ways:

- Gift of a percentage of your estate
- Gift of a specific asset
- Gift of the residue of your estate

Other Types of Bequests

Certain types of property pass outside of a will or trust. These assets require that you name a beneficiary by completing a beneficiary designation form. To make a bequest of these assets, you should contact the company or entity from which you purchased the asset. Here are a couple of examples:

Bequest of an IRA

A retirement asset like an IRA account makes an excellent bequest to charity. If the IRA were given to your family, much of the value would be depleted through estate and income taxes. By designating your church or the Foundation as the beneficiary of part or all of your IRA, the full value of the gift is transferred tax free at your death and your estate receives a charitable deduction. If you wish to leave your IRA to your spouse at your death, you may also bequest the secondary beneficiary of your account. Contact your IRA or retirement account custodian to obtain a beneficiary designation form and make a charitable bequest from your IRA.

Bequest of Insurance Policy

An insurance policy makes a nice bequest. As an asset of your estate, an insurance policy is taxable at your death. However, if the policy is gifted as a charitable bequest, your estate avoids paying tax on the value of the policy and receives a charitable deduction for the gift. You may generally name anyone as beneficiary of your insurance policy and change your designation at anytime. Contact your insurance company to obtain a beneficiary designation form and make a charitable bequest of your policy.
